The second Israel chapter of the InterPore conference was held at the Weizmann Institute of Science on September 18; about fifty researchers and academicians from throughout the nation attended. During the day, students gave lectures on a vast array of porous media-related research from various viewpoints. In addition, there was an interesting poster session where new research works were presented. The conference encouraged collaboration and knowledge sharing between researchers and students, and we look forward to sharing next year's meeting.

The organization of the chapter was led by the student representative of the Israel Chapter, Dror Ettliger from the Weizmann Institute of Science, and her committee members Yanjing Wei from Tel Aviv University, Mario del Mastro from the Technion, Arnold Bacharach from the Technion, and Sayan Sen from Ben Gurion University. We also thank Prof. Brian Berkowitz and the Weizmann institute for financing the conference.
